According to the training objectives and requirements of nursing education, Emergency Care starts from the emergency care skills that nurses should possess. The progressive description goes from prehospital treatment to in-hospital treatment; understanding emergency care to pre-hospital emergency care; emergency department care to disaster rescue. The content is divided into 4 parts and 15 tasks. It aims to improve paramedics emergency response capabilities, emergency care operational skills, and coordination capacities as well as abilities in providing psychological care to patients and their families with their knowledge. Meanwhile, the book will help readers to effectively manage first aid equipment, medicines and items so as to obtain strong work abilities and social competence. Emergency Care is co-edited by Yincui and Wang Qingli.
